After gaining extensive academic and professional experience in France and abroad — including at a Chinese technology company, international law firms, and the European Commission — Tim joined the firm's economic law team as an associate in 2024.

He primarily works in competition law, consumer law, distribution law and general commercial law. He is also active in the fields of digital law and data protection, with particular expertise in platform regulation.

With his multidisciplinary approach, Tim supports economic stakeholders in addressing their legal challenges, whether in advisory work, litigation, or pre-litigation.
