

Competition Law

Competition law impacts the life of economic players at every stage of their development, from shaping of their trade policies to their partnership projects and external growth plans. Regulatory and legislative changes at both European and national level make legal issues increasingly numerous and difficult for them to manage.

Our law firm assists economic players in their compliance with applicable regulations. It also assists them in their partnership projects and external growth plans, while providing them with solutions tailored to the reality of the challenges and practical constraints they face.

Our lawyers also assist their clients before the courts and the French and EU regulators. They intervene from the investigation phase (and possible dawn raids) to the litigation phase, in proceedings relating to anti-competitive practices (cartels, abuse of dominant position).

We work in a variety of sectors and with clients ranging from large tech companies to start-ups, car manufacturers, fashion retailers, wine and spirit producers or intermediaries, and pharmaceutical companies.

JP Karsenty's Competition Law team is led mainly by Jean-Philippe Arroyo. Jean-Philippe Arroyo is a member of the Executive Committee of the French Association for the Study of Competition (A.F.E.C.) and the firm is a member of the International Ligue of Competition Law (L.I.D.C.).
